transcosmos signs collaboration agreement with Wakayama Prefecture and Wakayama University towards building digital creative culture and revitalizing local communities

Also engages in Wakayama Children-Centered Society project via corporate version of *furusato nozei

transcosmos hereby announces that the company has signed a collaboration agreement towards building a digital creative culture and revitalizing local communities with Wakayama Prefecture and a national university corporation, Wakayama University. The purpose of the agreement is to build a new culture that attracts young generations, thereby revitalizing local communities by making Wakayama Prefecture a place where highly creative young people come together, and inspire each other to enhance intelligence and sensitivity.

Under the signed collaboration agreement, transcosmos, Wakayama Prefecture and Wakayama University will collaborate on the following themes;

- 1: Create an environment where creators and other talent can interact
- 2: Develop creative talent who will lead a digital society
- 3: Revitalize local communities with the power of digital content and digital art transcosmos signed this collaboration agreement, supporting the purpose of Wakayama Prefecture's initiative— Create thriving towns, people, and job in Wakayama: Wakayama Digital Creative Center Project. At the same time, in support of another project by the prefecture— Create thriving towns, people, and job in Wakayama: Wakayama Create a Child-Centered Society—transcosmos will assist the prefecture in running a children's cafeteria project to offer free or affordable meals to children utilizing the corporate version of Japan's hometown tax donation program, the furusato nozei.

At the ceremony, commemorating the signing of the collaboration agreement, Wakayama Prefectural Governor Izumi Miyazaki commented as follows.

“I would like to extend our sincere gratitude to transcosmos inc. for your support on our prefecture’s two projects, Wakayama Digital Creative Center Project and Wakayama Create a Child-Centered Society using the corporate version of furusato nozei. I am delighted that we, transcosmos inc., Wakayama Prefecture, and Wakayama University, have signed this collaboration agreement. By creating an environment where highly creative young generations and others with diverse backgrounds interact, collaborate and make innovation, we will revitalize our local communities and economies.”

transcosmos will continue to offer services that underpin clients’ business transformation while contributing to the revitalization and development of local communities by creating more job opportunities.
